Dear Arthur,

Thank you so much for inviting me to see the new Jackie Chan (成龍) movie this Friday. However, my grandparents will be visiting us that night, and our whole family is going out to dinner, so I won't be able to make it. If you are free next weekend, maybe we can go out then. Jackie Chan is my favorite actor, and I really look forward to seeing his new movie!

See you soon!

Questions 44-46

A few days before Chinese New Year, Ken invited two Australian friends to visit Taipei's Di-Hwa Street (迪化街) with him. Upon arriving there, his companions were amazed at how crowded and noisy it was. In front of every shop were tables overflowing with candy, dried fish, watermelon seeds — every kind of food popular at Chinese New Year. In the street, vendors selling snacks and New Year decorations competed with one another to attract the attention of passersby. Joining the crowd, Ken and his friends made their way slowly up the street and then back again, stopping occasionally to make a purchase or sample the food. When they had finished their tour, all three were tired yet happy that they had experienced an exciting part of Chinese New Year.

44. What would be a good title for this passage?
- A. An Interesting Day on Di-Hwa Street

Questions 55-57

One of the most distinctive regions of France is Provence, situated in the southeastern corner of the country. Long ago a province of the Roman Empire, today Provence is an extremely popular tourist area known for its local language, called Provençal, its beautiful scenery, its perfume industry, its strong winter wind, called the Mistral, and its truffles, a kind of edible fungus that grows in the forests. The beauty of Provence has attracted people from around the world, including many artists like Renoir, Picasso, and Van Gogh, who came to paint its people, street scenes and countryside. In winter, when the Mistral blows, Provence can be a bitterly cold place; in summer, however, it is a wonderfully sunny place with gentle breezes and warm evenings. No wonder the people of Provence are very proud of their region. Many of them have no desire ever to leave.

55. What is the main subject of this passage?
- A. The many unique features of Provence
 - B. The importance of the Mistral
 - C. Provence's unusual weather patterns
 - D. Provence as an art center
56. What does the word "it" in line 8 refer to?
- A. The summer
 - B. The world
 - C. Fungus
 - D. Provence
57. What does the author suggest about Provence?
- A. It is a paradise for skiers.
 - B. It is a boring place.
 - C. Its natural beauty makes it worth a visit.
 - D. Its people are not friendly.

Questions 58-60

Each year car manufacturers throughout the world produce a glittering array of different models, designed to appeal to every age, to every taste, to every pocketbook. For the person who needs reliable transportation at minimum operating cost, there is a large selection of small, lightweight cars that travel great distances on very little gasoline. For the young, who demand the ultimate in appearance and performance, there is a great variety of sports and specialty models. For the "young at heart"—the middle-aged, middle-class citizens who want a prestige mix of style, size, and comfort—there is a wide range of big, sleek cars available with all sorts of optional equipment. And finally, for the truly wealthy, there is a select group of luxury cars, custom-built to satisfy the most fastidious taste. On the basis of just the above categories, it can be said that the car industry exemplifies the seller's slogan, "_____."

58. Which of the following is most likely to be the seller's slogan in the last sentence?
- A. "A luxury car can truly reflect your high status."
 - B. "You pay your money, and you take your choice."
 - C. "Get the best car for the least money."
 - D. "Come to us to find a car that saves you space."
59. How many different groups of cars are mentioned in this passage?
- A. One
 - B. Two
 - C. Three
 - D. Four
60. According to this passage, which kind of car provides reliable transportation at minimum cost?
- A. The small, lightweight car
 - B. The sports car
 - C. The luxury car
 - D. The big, sleek car

-The End-
